

CORINTH EVACUATED.

Highly Important from Gen. Halleck's Army.

The Union Troops in Possession of the Town.

The Stars and Stripes Flying from the Corinth Court House.

The Retreat of the Rebels on the Mobile Railroad.

THE PURSUIT.

The Union Cavalry Eight Miles Below Corinth.

Despatches from Gen. Halleck to Secretary Stanton.

Despatches from General Halleck.

HEADQUARTERS, DEPARTMENT OF THE MISSISSIPPI, CAMP ON THE CORINTH ROAD, May 30, 1862.

E. M. STANTON, Secretary of War.

Three strong reconnoitering columns advanced this morning on the right, centre and left, to feel the enemy's position. The enemy's position was not yet ascertained. Some five or six officers and a number of privates were captured.

The fighting will probably be renewed to-morrow at daylight. The whole country is so thickly wooded that we are compelled to feel our way.

H. W. HALLECK, Major General.

NEAR CORINTH, May 30, 1862.

General Pope's heavy batteries opened upon the enemy's intrenchments yesterday about ten A. M., and drove the rebels from their advanced batteries.

Major General W. T. Sherman established another battery yesterday afternoon within one thousand yards of their works, and skirmishing parties advanced daybreak this morning. Three of our divisions are now in the enemy's advanced works, about three miles from Corinth, which is in flames.

The enemy has fallen back of the Mobile and Ohio Railroad.

H. W. HALLECK, Major General.

NEAR CORINTH, May 30, 1862.

E. M. STANTON.

Our advance guard are in Corinth.

Conflicting accounts as to the enemy's movements.

It is believed to be in strong force on our left flank, four or five miles south of Corinth, near the Mobile and Ohio Railroad.

H. W. HALLECK, Major General.

NEAR CORINTH, May 30, 1862.

Telegrams to the Press.

WASHINGTON, May 30, 1862.

A telegraphic dispatch has just been received at the War Department from an official source, stating that the rebels left Corinth last night, and that General Halleck occupied their intrenchments at eight o'clock this morning.

WASHINGTON, May 30, 1862.

A dispatch just received at the War Department fully corroborates the former message that Corinth is evacuated by the rebels and occupied by our troops. Prisoners of the enemy left last night for Okolona, a point thirty miles south of Corinth, on the Mobile and Ohio Railroad.

NEAR CORINTH, May 30—Midnight.

No additional movements have taken place except slight skirmishing and strengthening our position.

Gen. Halleck has moved his camp two miles forward.

Last night, aid to Gen. Daponte, was among the prisoners captured yesterday.

NEAR CORINTH, May 30, 1862.

Gen. Pope's advance, the Thirty-ninth Ohio regiment, occupied Corinth at forty minutes past six this morning, and retired on the Corinth Road.

The enemy evacuated the place last night, retreating down the Mobile and Ohio Railroad.

The telegraph line is occupied with military business, but expect to obtain particulars soon.

THE DETAILS OF THE ACTION.

HALLECK'S HEADQUARTERS, May 30, 1862.

During the night of last night the moving of cars and supplies without sounding of alarm was a movement going on, but it was not being any extraordinary occurrence, nor was it considered of an extraordinary nature.

About five o'clock this morning several explosions were distinctly heard. Immediately after skirmishers were thrown out, and a general advance commenced.

A very large amount of railroad iron was untouched.

There being some twelve or fifteen tracks of railroad from the depot to the intrenchments, with side tracks and switches, they were enabled to move troops with great rapidity.

From all information gleaned from prisoners it is thought the evacuation commenced at sundown of last night, the enemy retreating in three different directions—east, west and south.

Beauregard stated to the citizens last night that he intended evacuating and throwing himself on both our flanks.

At this hour Corinth is held by our outposts, and the cavalry is searching for the enemy.

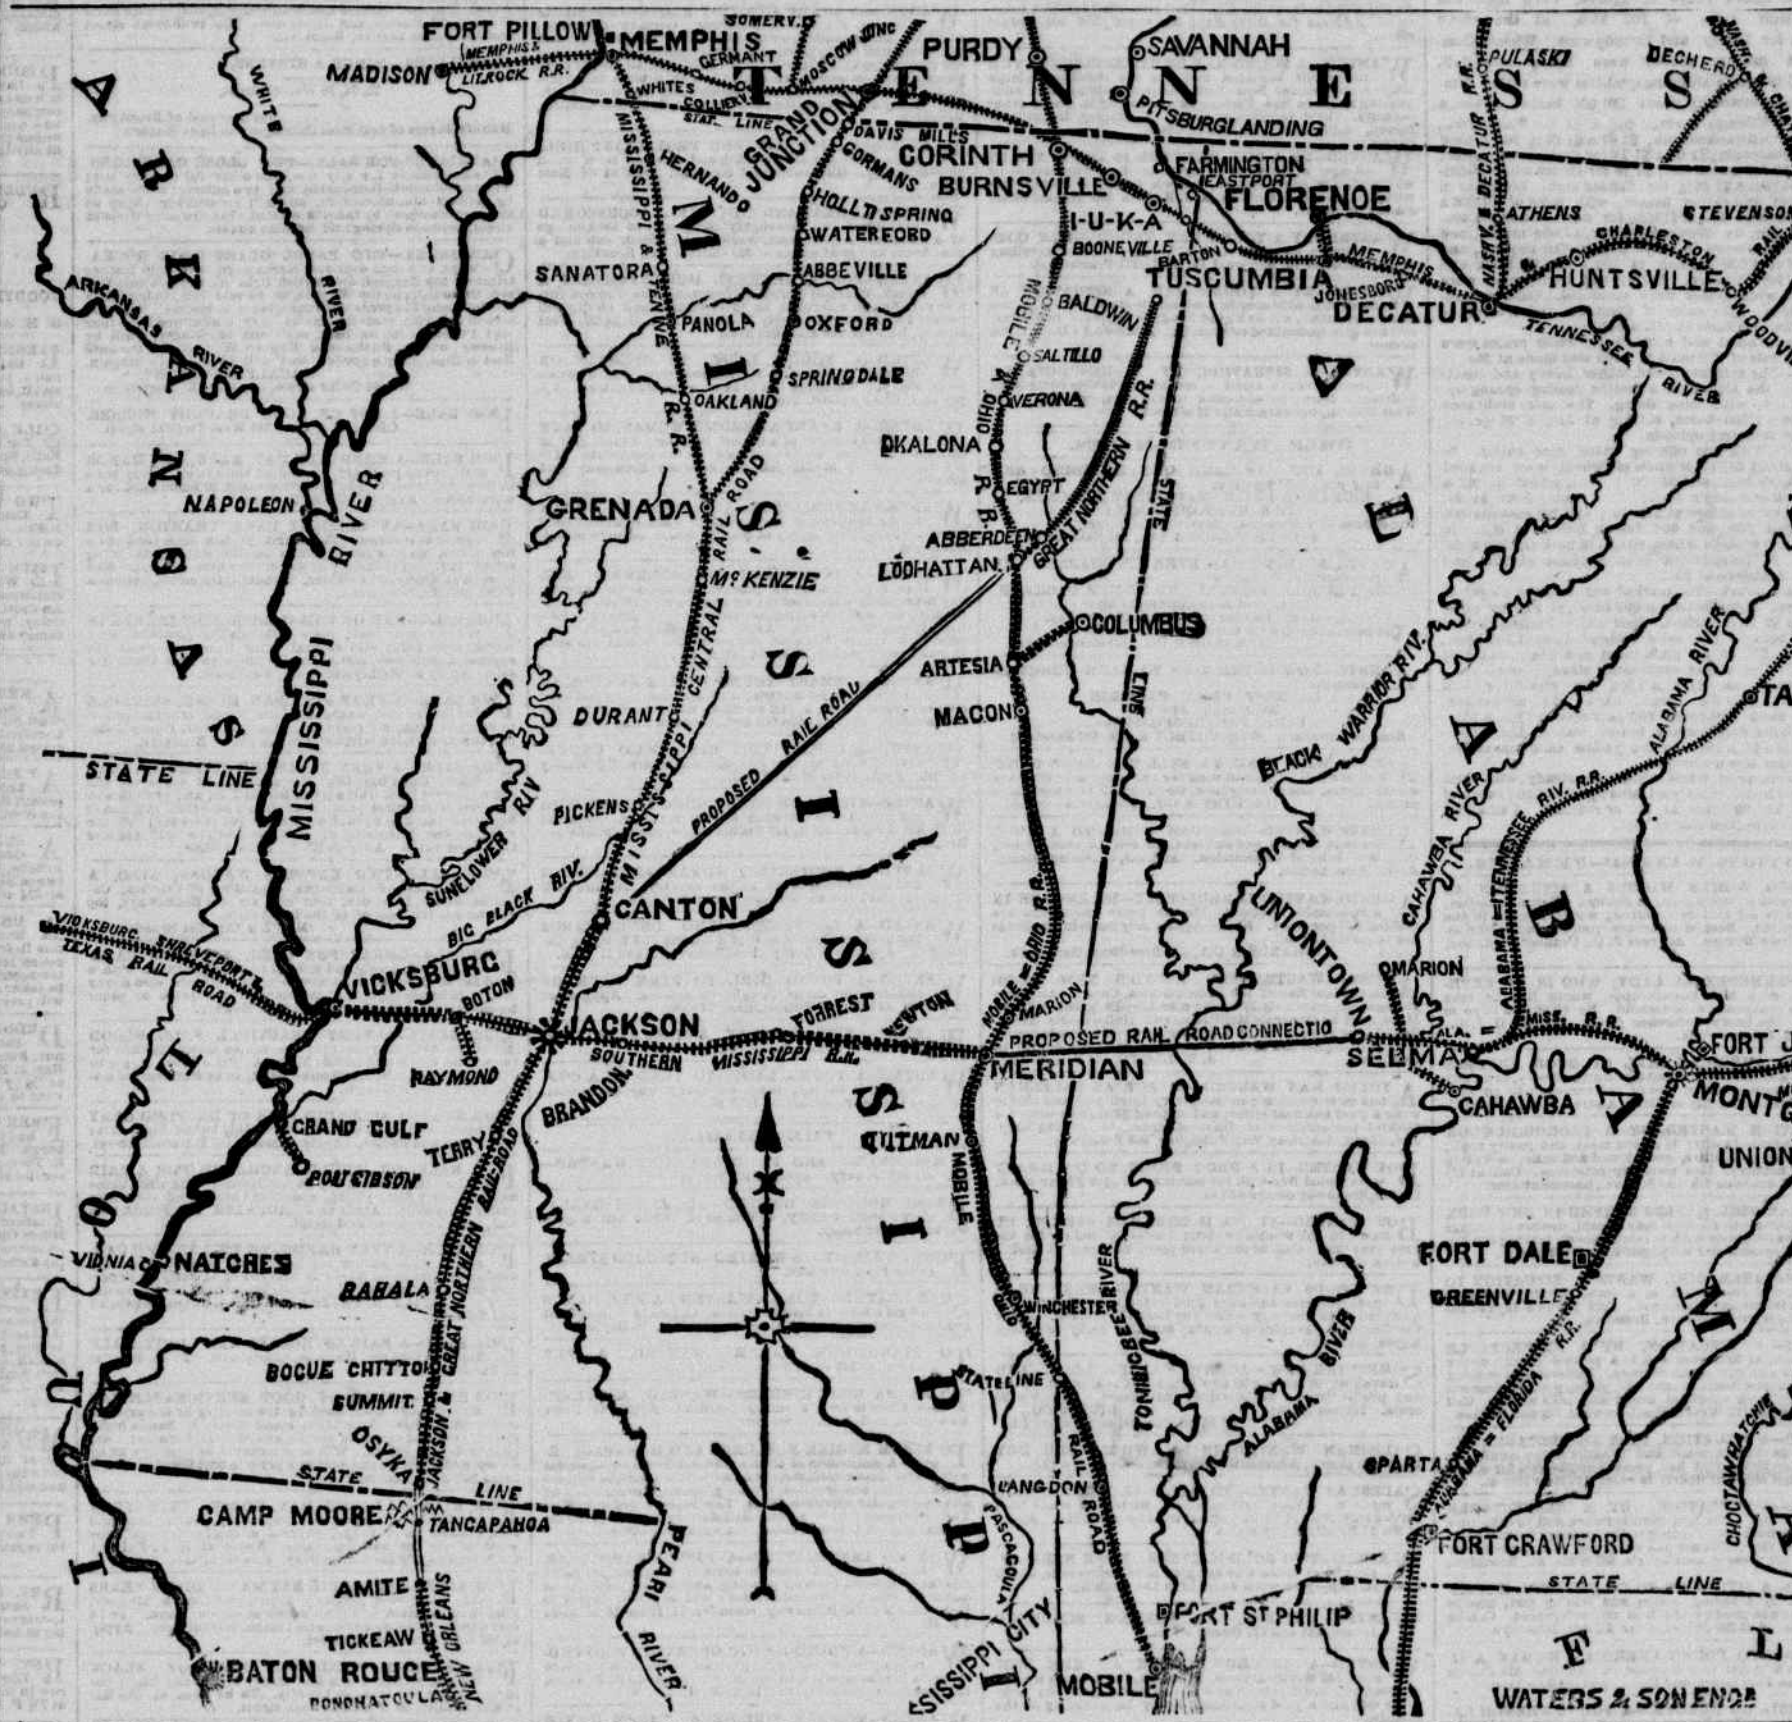

That sent by General Pope came upon and dispersed the enemy eight miles below Corinth on the Mobile and Ohio Railroad, in the act of burning the bridge, and capturing forty prisoners.

The enemy's rear guard destroyed the depot, a few miles of cotton and a church, and intended destroying the entire village, but the citizens saved some fifty houses. They also broke open stores and burned the contents.

A large cavalry force under Colonel Elliot sent out on Wednesday morning by a circuitous route to destroy a bridge on the Mobile and Ohio Railroad south of Corinth, though they have not yet returned, have probably succeeded in we learn from prisoners that it was known in Corinth

THE EVACUATION OF CORINTH.

Important Movements of the Rebels—The Retreat of Beauregard Towards Okolona.

NEWS FROM GEN. MCLELLAN'S ARMY

Our Special Army Correspondence.

CAMP ON THE CORINTH ROAD, NEAR CORINTH, May 30, 1862.

The family of the late Robert Lee, who was killed at the battle of Gettysburg, are now in the hands of the Federal Army.

Yesterday we again pulled up stakes and departed for the vicinity of the rebel capital. The country as we progress becomes more open and diversified, and houses, which, since we left the immediate vicinity of Yorktown, were few and far between, now spring up in platoons on every side, and give to the country an air of civilization which is refreshing to behold. Some of these residences still retain their look of cheerfulness, and not a few of them are inhabited by the families of the owners, minus the males, with the exception of those who are of such an advanced age as to be unable to enter the army of Jefferson Davis.

In one of these houses, distant about seven miles from Richmond, and now some miles within our lines, we found the family of the rebel General Robert Lee, consisting of Mrs. Lee, her daughter-in-law, the wife of Colonel Lee, the head cavalry, and two nieces. From what I can learn concerning them, it appears that they were sent here from Richmond by General Lee, about six days before our forces advanced and took possession, and have been living here under guard of Union soldiers since the arrival of our advanced guard. With the grand army came up, one of our generals sent a party of soldiers to search the house occupied by Mrs. Lee and family, with a view to secure some valuable papers which were supposed to be secreted in the house. The soldiers made the search, and after having been satisfied that there was nothing contraband, except the letters, on the premises, were about to depart, when Mrs. Lee handed a note to the officer in charge, which was directed to the commanding officer of the division, with the request that it should be handed to him as soon as possible. The note was delivered per instructions, and is as follows:

TO THE GENERAL IN COMMAND:

—I have patience and humbly submitted to a search of my house by men under your command, who are satisfied that there is nothing here that they want, all the plates and other valuables having long since been removed to Richmond, and are now beyond the reach of any Northern marauders who may wish for their possession.

WIFE OF ROBERT LEE, General, U. S. A.

What this note was intended to accomplish, I cannot say; but what occasions most surprise is the fact that the letter having been sent to this place by Gen. Lee, who could not but know that our troops would take possession of the place in a few days, perhaps hours, in order for the families of rebel generals to be within the lines of the despised Union army, or have the tables turned, and the army of Gen. Davis taken up which was ascribed to the army of Abraham Lincoln, viz: the burning of property, ravaging of innocent families, and laying waste the happy dwellers of peaceful citizens, whose only wish has been to be "let alone." We live with the exclamation of seeing Mrs. Lee and family within the present week, and of welcoming her to the care of Union soldiers.

We are now lying within close shooting distance of the rebels, and occasionally one of our pickets is met by the dust of the band of some lurking rebel. The work goes on spiritedly, and the weather could not be more propitious.

NEWS FROM RICHMOND.

Rebel Accounts of Affairs in Richmond.

RECOMMENDING THAT RICHMOND BE BURNED.

[From the Richmond Enquirer, May 21.]

Our dearest are our own husbands, fathers, sons, brothers and kindred, dear to us, and we lie down at night and rise up from day to day preserved from invasion by the loved ones in the front. But the enemy's strong in numbers and his energies are bent on the capture of Richmond. His coils will become closer and closer every day. He will not return until defeated and driven from the field.

But are we prepared to receive all this? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our brethren in the front? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our own husbands, fathers, sons, brothers and kindred, dear to us, and we lie down at night and rise up from day to day preserved from invasion by the loved ones in the front. But the enemy's strong in numbers and his energies are bent on the capture of Richmond. His coils will become closer and closer every day. He will not return until defeated and driven from the field.

But are we prepared to receive all this? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our brethren in the front? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our own husbands, fathers, sons, brothers and kindred, dear to us, and we lie down at night and rise up from day to day preserved from invasion by the loved ones in the front. But the enemy's strong in numbers and his energies are bent on the capture of Richmond. His coils will become closer and closer every day. He will not return until defeated and driven from the field.

But are we prepared to receive all this? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our brethren in the front? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our own husbands, fathers, sons, brothers and kindred, dear to us, and we lie down at night and rise up from day to day preserved from invasion by the loved ones in the front. But the enemy's strong in numbers and his energies are bent on the capture of Richmond. His coils will become closer and closer every day. He will not return until defeated and driven from the field.

But are we prepared to receive all this? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our brethren in the front? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our own husbands, fathers, sons, brothers and kindred, dear to us, and we lie down at night and rise up from day to day preserved from invasion by the loved ones in the front. But the enemy's strong in numbers and his energies are bent on the capture of Richmond. His coils will become closer and closer every day. He will not return until defeated and driven from the field.

But are we prepared to receive all this? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our brethren in the front? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our own husbands, fathers, sons, brothers and kindred, dear to us, and we lie down at night and rise up from day to day preserved from invasion by the loved ones in the front. But the enemy's strong in numbers and his energies are bent on the capture of Richmond. His coils will become closer and closer every day. He will not return until defeated and driven from the field.

But are we prepared to receive all this? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our brethren in the front? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our own husbands, fathers, sons, brothers and kindred, dear to us, and we lie down at night and rise up from day to day preserved from invasion by the loved ones in the front. But the enemy's strong in numbers and his energies are bent on the capture of Richmond. His coils will become closer and closer every day. He will not return until defeated and driven from the field.

But are we prepared to receive all this? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our brethren in the front? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our own husbands, fathers, sons, brothers and kindred, dear to us, and we lie down at night and rise up from day to day preserved from invasion by the loved ones in the front. But the enemy's strong in numbers and his energies are bent on the capture of Richmond. His coils will become closer and closer every day. He will not return until defeated and driven from the field.

But are we prepared to receive all this? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our brethren in the front? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our own husbands, fathers, sons, brothers and kindred, dear to us, and we lie down at night and rise up from day to day preserved from invasion by the loved ones in the front. But the enemy's strong in numbers and his energies are bent on the capture of Richmond. His coils will become closer and closer every day. He will not return until defeated and driven from the field.

But are we prepared to receive all this? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our brethren in the front? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our own husbands, fathers, sons, brothers and kindred, dear to us, and we lie down at night and rise up from day to day preserved from invasion by the loved ones in the front. But the enemy's strong in numbers and his energies are bent on the capture of Richmond. His coils will become closer and closer every day. He will not return until defeated and driven from the field.

But are we prepared to receive all this? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our brethren in the front? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our own husbands, fathers, sons, brothers and kindred, dear to us, and we lie down at night and rise up from day to day preserved from invasion by the loved ones in the front. But the enemy's strong in numbers and his energies are bent on the capture of Richmond. His coils will become closer and closer every day. He will not return until defeated and driven from the field.

But are we prepared to receive all this? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our brethren in the front? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our own husbands, fathers, sons, brothers and kindred, dear to us, and we lie down at night and rise up from day to day preserved from invasion by the loved ones in the front. But the enemy's strong in numbers and his energies are bent on the capture of Richmond. His coils will become closer and closer every day. He will not return until defeated and driven from the field.

But are we prepared to receive all this? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our brethren in the front? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our own husbands, fathers, sons, brothers and kindred, dear to us, and we lie down at night and rise up from day to day preserved from invasion by the loved ones in the front. But the enemy's strong in numbers and his energies are bent on the capture of Richmond. His coils will become closer and closer every day. He will not return until defeated and driven from the field.

But are we prepared to receive all this? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our brethren in the front? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our own husbands, fathers, sons, brothers and kindred, dear to us, and we lie down at night and rise up from day to day preserved from invasion by the loved ones in the front. But the enemy's strong in numbers and his energies are bent on the capture of Richmond. His coils will become closer and closer every day. He will not return until defeated and driven from the field.

But are we prepared to receive all this? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our brethren in the front? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our own husbands, fathers, sons, brothers and kindred, dear to us, and we lie down at night and rise up from day to day preserved from invasion by the loved ones in the front. But the enemy's strong in numbers and his energies are bent on the capture of Richmond. His coils will become closer and closer every day. He will not return until defeated and driven from the field.

But are we prepared to receive all this? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our brethren in the front? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our own husbands, fathers, sons, brothers and kindred, dear to us, and we lie down at night and rise up from day to day preserved from invasion by the loved ones in the front. But the enemy's strong in numbers and his energies are bent on the capture of Richmond. His coils will become closer and closer every day. He will not return until defeated and driven from the field.

But are we prepared to receive all this? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our brethren in the front? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our own husbands, fathers, sons, brothers and kindred, dear to us, and we lie down at night and rise up from day to day preserved from invasion by the loved ones in the front. But the enemy's strong in numbers and his energies are bent on the capture of Richmond. His coils will become closer and closer every day. He will not return until defeated and driven from the field.

But are we prepared to receive all this? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our brethren in the front? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our own husbands, fathers, sons, brothers and kindred, dear to us, and we lie down at night and rise up from day to day preserved from invasion by the loved ones in the front. But the enemy's strong in numbers and his energies are bent on the capture of Richmond. His coils will become closer and closer every day. He will not return until defeated and driven from the field.

But are we prepared to receive all this? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our brethren in the front? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our own husbands, fathers, sons, brothers and kindred, dear to us, and we lie down at night and rise up from day to day preserved from invasion by the loved ones in the front. But the enemy's strong in numbers and his energies are bent on the capture of Richmond. His coils will become closer and closer every day. He will not return until defeated and driven from the field.

But are we prepared to receive all this? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our brethren in the front? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our own husbands, fathers, sons, brothers and kindred, dear to us, and we lie down at night and rise up from day to day preserved from invasion by the loved ones in the front. But the enemy's strong in numbers and his energies are bent on the capture of Richmond. His coils will become closer and closer every day. He will not return until defeated and driven from the field.

But are we prepared to receive all this? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our brethren in the front? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our own husbands, fathers, sons, brothers and kindred, dear to us, and we lie down at night and rise up from day to day preserved from invasion by the loved ones in the front. But the enemy's strong in numbers and his energies are bent on the capture of Richmond. His coils will become closer and closer every day. He will not return until defeated and driven from the field.

But are we prepared to receive all this? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our brethren in the front? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our own husbands, fathers, sons, brothers and kindred, dear to us, and we lie down at night and rise up from day to day preserved from invasion by the loved ones in the front. But the enemy's strong in numbers and his energies are bent on the capture of Richmond. His coils will become closer and closer every day. He will not return until defeated and driven from the field.

But are we prepared to receive all this? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our brethren in the front? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our own husbands, fathers, sons, brothers and kindred, dear to us, and we lie down at night and rise up from day to day preserved from invasion by the loved ones in the front. But the enemy's strong in numbers and his energies are bent on the capture of Richmond. His coils will become closer and closer every day. He will not return until defeated and driven from the field.

But are we prepared to receive all this? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our brethren in the front? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our own husbands, fathers, sons, brothers and kindred, dear to us, and we lie down at night and rise up from day to day preserved from invasion by the loved ones in the front. But the enemy's strong in numbers and his energies are bent on the capture of Richmond. His coils will become closer and closer every day. He will not return until defeated and driven from the field.

But are we prepared to receive all this? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our brethren in the front? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our own husbands, fathers, sons, brothers and kindred, dear to us, and we lie down at night and rise up from day to day preserved from invasion by the loved ones in the front. But the enemy's strong in numbers and his energies are bent on the capture of Richmond. His coils will become closer and closer every day. He will not return until defeated and driven from the field.

But are we prepared to receive all this? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our brethren in the front? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our own husbands, fathers, sons, brothers and kindred, dear to us, and we lie down at night and rise up from day to day preserved from invasion by the loved ones in the front. But the enemy's strong in numbers and his energies are bent on the capture of Richmond. His coils will become closer and closer every day. He will not return until defeated and driven from the field.

But are we prepared to receive all this? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our brethren in the front? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our own husbands, fathers, sons, brothers and kindred, dear to us, and we lie down at night and rise up from day to day preserved from invasion by the loved ones in the front. But the enemy's strong in numbers and his energies are bent on the capture of Richmond. His coils will become closer and closer every day. He will not return until defeated and driven from the field.

But are we prepared to receive all this? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our brethren in the front? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our own husbands, fathers, sons, brothers and kindred, dear to us, and we lie down at night and rise up from day to day preserved from invasion by the loved ones in the front. But the enemy's strong in numbers and his energies are bent on the capture of Richmond. His coils will become closer and closer every day. He will not return until defeated and driven from the field.

But are we prepared to receive all this? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our brethren in the front? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our own husbands, fathers, sons, brothers and kindred, dear to us, and we lie down at night and rise up from day to day preserved from invasion by the loved ones in the front. But the enemy's strong in numbers and his energies are bent on the capture of Richmond. His coils will become closer and closer every day. He will not return until defeated and driven from the field.

But are we prepared to receive all this? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our brethren in the front? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our own husbands, fathers, sons, brothers and kindred, dear to us, and we lie down at night and rise up from day to day preserved from invasion by the loved ones in the front. But the enemy's strong in numbers and his energies are bent on the capture of Richmond. His coils will become closer and closer every day. He will not return until defeated and driven from the field.

But are we prepared to receive all this? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our brethren in the front? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our own husbands, fathers, sons, brothers and kindred, dear to us, and we lie down at night and rise up from day to day preserved from invasion by the loved ones in the front. But the enemy's strong in numbers and his energies are bent on the capture of Richmond. His coils will become closer and closer every day. He will not return until defeated and driven from the field.

But are we prepared to receive all this? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our brethren in the front? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our own husbands, fathers, sons, brothers and kindred, dear to us, and we lie down at night and rise up from day to day preserved from invasion by the loved ones in the front. But the enemy's strong in numbers and his energies are bent on the capture of Richmond. His coils will become closer and closer every day. He will not return until defeated and driven from the field.

But are we prepared to receive all this? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our brethren in the front? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our own husbands, fathers, sons, brothers and kindred, dear to us, and we lie down at night and rise up from day to day preserved from invasion by the loved ones in the front. But the enemy's strong in numbers and his energies are bent on the capture of Richmond. His coils will become closer and closer every day. He will not return until defeated and driven from the field.

But are we prepared to receive all this? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our brethren in the front? Are we prepared to receive the corpses of our own husbands, fathers, sons, brothers and kindred, dear to us, and we lie down at night and rise up from day to day preserved from invasion by the loved ones in the front. But the enemy's strong in numbers and his energies are bent on the capture of Richmond. His coils will become closer and closer every day. He will not return until defeated and driven from the field.

transpiration upon the James River Canal. That work will be found adequate to conduct the communication with the upper country, if timely steps shall be taken to put all the boats and small boats in order. It is plain that the enemy may make a cavalry dash upon our railroad and intercept their use, but if the canal be put and kept in good working order, the supplies of the upper country can be brought down with sufficient rapidity to maintain our army. We hope this important measure will be attended to immediately. Indeed, we trust it has already received the attention of the Confederate and Federal authorities. Let not an indignant public be awakened suddenly to the important fact of an insufficient communication with the interior. Let not the Confederate authorities give occasion to comments which impair public confidence in the cause, and let the President of the canal take measures that Virginia shall receive an adequate reward in the safety of her capital for the liberal wisdom with which she has constructed that important work.

We infer from reported movements of the enemy that it is his purpose to move on our railroad and intercept our communication with the interior. We have no fear of the "circumlocution" of which we hear, unless the Yankees advance far enough to command our railroad and be connected to the rail companies for the safe accommodation of the public, it is probable that the supplies of bacon, butter, &c., would have been much larger, and that instead of a scarcity there might have been something like an adequate supply of bread and meat, &c. The encroachments of the enemy, the confusion prevailing in some districts of the interior, from the rolling stock and other causes, may render useless any attempt at this time to interfere with the interior. We have no fear of the "circumlocution" of which we hear, unless the Yankees advance far enough to command our railroad and be connected to the rail companies for the safe accommodation of the public, it is probable that the supplies of bacon, butter, &c., would have been much larger, and that instead of a scarcity there might have been something like an adequate supply of bread and meat, &c. The encroachments of the enemy, the confusion prevailing in some districts of the interior, from the rolling stock and other causes, may render useless any attempt at this time to interfere with the interior. We have no fear of the "circumlocution" of which we hear, unless the Yankees advance far enough to command our railroad and be connected to the rail companies for the safe accommodation of the public, it is probable that the supplies of bacon, butter, &c., would have been much larger, and that instead of a scarcity there might have been something like an adequate supply of bread and meat, &c. The encroachments of the enemy, the confusion prevailing in some districts of the interior, from the rolling stock and other causes, may render useless any attempt at this time to interfere with the interior. We have no fear of the "circumlocution" of which we hear, unless the Yankees advance far enough to command our railroad and be connected to the rail companies for the safe accommodation of the public, it is probable that the supplies of bacon, butter, &c., would have been much larger, and that instead of a scarcity there might have been something like an adequate supply of bread and meat, &c. The encroachments of the enemy, the confusion prevailing in some districts of the interior, from the rolling stock and other causes, may render useless any attempt at this time to interfere with the interior. We have no fear of the "circumlocution" of which we hear, unless the Yankees advance far enough to command our railroad and be connected to the rail companies for the safe accommodation of the public, it is probable that the supplies of bacon, butter, &c., would have been much larger, and that instead of a scarcity there might have been something like an adequate supply of bread and meat, &c. The encroachments of the enemy, the confusion prevailing in some districts of the interior, from the rolling stock and other causes, may render useless any attempt at this time to interfere with the interior. We have no fear of the "circumlocution" of which we hear, unless the Yankees advance far enough to command our railroad and be connected to the rail companies for the safe accommodation of the public, it is probable that the supplies of bacon, butter, &c., would have been much larger, and that instead of a scarcity there might have been something like an adequate supply of bread and meat, &c. The encroachments of the enemy, the confusion prevailing in some districts of the interior, from the rolling stock and other causes, may render useless any attempt at this time to interfere with the interior. We have no fear of the "circumlocution" of which we hear, unless the Yankees advance far enough to command our railroad and be connected to the rail companies for the safe accommodation of the public, it is probable that the supplies of bacon, butter, &c., would have been much larger, and that instead of a scarcity there might have been something like an adequate supply of bread and meat, &c. The encroachments of the enemy, the confusion prevailing in some districts of the interior, from the rolling stock and other causes, may render useless any attempt at this time to interfere with the interior. We have no fear of the "circumlocution" of which we hear, unless the Yankees advance far enough to command our railroad and be connected to the rail companies for the safe accommodation of the public, it is probable that the supplies of bacon, butter, &c., would have been much larger, and that instead of a scarcity there might have been something like an adequate supply of bread and meat, &c. The encroachments of the enemy, the confusion prevailing in some districts of the interior, from the rolling stock and other causes, may render useless any attempt at this time to interfere with the interior. We have no fear of the "circumlocution" of which we hear, unless the Yankees advance far enough to command our railroad and be connected to the rail companies for the safe accommodation of the public, it is probable that the supplies of bacon, butter, &c., would have been much larger, and that instead of a scarcity there might have been something like an adequate supply of bread and meat, &c. The encroachments of the enemy, the confusion prevailing in some districts of the interior, from the rolling stock and other causes, may render useless any attempt at this time to interfere with the interior. We have no fear of the "circumlocution" of which we hear, unless the Yankees advance far enough to command our railroad and be connected to the rail companies for the safe accommodation of the public, it is probable that the supplies of bacon, butter, &c., would have been much larger, and that instead of a scarcity there might have been something like an adequate supply of bread and meat, &c. The encroachments of the enemy, the confusion prevailing in some districts of the interior, from the rolling stock and other causes, may render useless any attempt at this time to interfere with the interior. We have no fear of the "circumlocution" of which we hear, unless the Yankees advance far enough to command our railroad and be connected to the rail companies for the safe accommodation of the public, it is probable that the supplies of bacon, butter, &c., would have been much larger, and that instead of a scarcity there might have been something like an adequate supply of bread and meat, &c. The encroachments of the enemy, the confusion prevailing in some districts of the interior, from the rolling stock and other causes, may render useless any attempt at this time to interfere with the interior. We have no fear of the "circumlocution" of which we hear, unless the Yankees advance far enough to command our railroad and be connected to the rail companies for the safe accommodation of the public, it is probable that the supplies of bacon, butter, &c., would have been much larger, and that instead of a scarcity there might have been something like an adequate supply of bread and meat, &c. The encroachments of the enemy, the confusion prevailing in some districts of the interior, from the rolling stock and other causes, may render useless any attempt at this time to interfere with the interior. We have no fear of the "circumlocution" of which we hear, unless the Yankees advance far enough to command our railroad and be connected to the rail companies for the safe accommodation of the public, it is probable that the supplies of bacon, butter, &c., would have been much larger, and that instead of a scarcity there might have been something like an adequate supply of bread and meat, &c. The encroachments of the enemy, the confusion prevailing in some districts of the interior, from the rolling stock and other causes, may render useless any attempt at this time to interfere with the interior. We have no fear of the "circumlocution" of which we hear, unless the Yankees advance far enough to command our railroad and be connected to the rail companies for the safe accommodation of the public, it is probable that the supplies of bacon, butter, &c., would have been much larger, and that instead of a scarcity there might have been something like an adequate supply of bread and meat, &c. The encroachments of the enemy, the confusion prevailing in some districts of the interior, from the rolling stock and other causes, may render useless any attempt at this time to interfere with the interior. We have no fear of the "circumlocution" of which we hear, unless the Yankees advance far enough to command our railroad and be connected to the rail companies for the safe accommodation of the public, it is probable that the supplies of bacon, butter, &c., would have been much larger, and that instead of a scarcity there might have been something like an adequate supply of bread and meat, &c. The encroachments of the enemy, the confusion prevailing in some districts of the interior, from the rolling stock and other causes, may render useless any attempt at this time to interfere with the interior. We have no fear of the "circumlocution" of which we hear, unless the Yankees advance far enough to command our railroad and be connected to the rail companies for the safe accommodation of the public, it is probable that the supplies of bacon, butter, &c., would have been much larger, and that instead of a scarcity there might have been something like an adequate supply of bread and meat, &c. The encroachments of the enemy, the confusion prevailing in some districts of the interior, from the rolling stock and other causes, may render useless any attempt at this time to interfere with the interior. We have no fear of the "circumlocution" of which we hear, unless the Yankees advance far enough to command our railroad and be connected to the rail companies for the safe accommodation of the public, it is probable that the supplies of bacon, butter, &c., would have been much larger, and that instead of a scarcity there might have been something like an adequate supply of bread and meat, &c. The encroachments of the enemy, the confusion prevailing in some districts of the interior, from the rolling stock and other causes, may render useless any attempt at this time to interfere with the interior. We have no fear of the "circumlocution" of which we hear, unless the Yankees advance far enough to command our railroad and be connected to the rail companies for the safe accommodation of the public, it is probable that the supplies of bacon, butter, &c., would have been much larger, and that instead of a scarcity there might have been something like an adequate supply of bread and meat, &c. The encroachments of the enemy, the confusion prevailing in some districts of the interior, from the rolling stock and other causes, may render useless any attempt at this time to interfere with the interior. We have no fear of the "circumlocution" of which we hear, unless the Yankees advance far enough to command our railroad and be connected to the rail companies for the safe accommodation of the public, it is probable that the supplies of bacon, butter, &c., would have been much larger, and that instead of a scarcity there might have been something like an adequate supply of bread and meat, &c. The encroachments of the enemy, the confusion prevailing in some districts of the interior, from the rolling stock and other causes, may render useless any attempt at this time to interfere with the interior. We have no fear of the "circumlocution" of which we hear, unless the Yankees advance far enough to command our railroad and be connected to the rail companies for the safe accommodation of the public, it is probable that the supplies of bacon, butter, &c., would have been much larger, and that instead of a scarcity there might have been something like an adequate supply of bread and meat, &c. The encroachments of the enemy, the confusion prevailing in some districts of the interior, from the rolling stock and other causes, may render useless any attempt at this time to interfere with the interior. We have no fear of the "circumlocution" of which we hear, unless the Yankees advance far enough to command our railroad and be connected to the rail companies for the safe accommodation of the public, it is probable that the supplies of bacon, butter, &c., would have been much larger, and that instead of a scarcity there might have been something like an adequate supply of bread and meat, &c. The encroachments of the enemy, the confusion prevailing in some districts of the interior, from the rolling stock and other causes, may render useless any attempt at this time to interfere with the interior. We have no fear of the "circumlocution" of which we hear, unless the Yankees advance far enough to command our railroad and be connected to the rail companies for the safe accommodation of the public, it is probable that the supplies of bacon, butter, &c., would have been much larger, and that instead of a scarcity there might have been something like an adequate supply of bread and meat, &c. The encroachments of the enemy, the confusion prevailing in some districts of the interior, from the rolling stock and other causes, may render useless any attempt at this time to interfere with the interior. We have no fear of the "circumlocution" of which we hear, unless the Yankees advance far enough to command our railroad and be connected to the rail companies for the safe accommodation of the public, it is probable that the supplies of bacon, butter, &c., would have been much larger, and that instead of a scarcity there might have been something like an adequate supply of bread and meat, &c. The encroachments of the enemy, the confusion prevailing in some districts of the interior, from the rolling stock and other causes, may render useless any attempt at this time to interfere with the interior. We have no fear of the "circumlocution" of which we hear, unless the Yankees advance far enough to command our railroad and be connected to the rail companies for the safe accommodation of the public, it is probable that the supplies of bacon, butter, &c., would have been much larger, and that instead of a scarcity there might have been something like an adequate supply of bread and meat, &c. The encroachments of the enemy, the confusion prevailing in some districts of